GETTIN' IT ON

Craps And Laughs: Core contains 100 brown cards and 400 yellow cards. Seperate the cards (but don't be a racist ass about it!) and shuffle them. Each player then draws ten yellow cards.

The person who has gone the longest without having sex will be the starting Kard Kommandant. The Kommandant draws a brown card and reads it aloud. Each of the other players then pick one of their yellow cards to answer the question or fill in the blank and passes it, face down, to the Kommandant.

The Kommandant will re-read the brown card, this time using each yellow card in turn to answer the question or fill in the blank. Whichever card the Kommandant feels makes for the funniest or most vile response wins. The person who played the winning yellow card collects the brown card as a trophy (pathetic, huh?) and earns one Bastard Point.

Each player now draws a new yellow card, making sure to always have ten. The player to the left of the first Kommandant becomes the new Kommandant for the next round.

Rinse. Repeat.

SPECIAL CARDS

Mixed in with the regular brown cards are two special types of brown cards.

There are thirteen Play 2 brown cards in the core set. When the Kard Kommandant draws a card with this symbol, the other players are told to play two yellow cards instead of one. Bet you'd have never figured that out! Decide beforehand how your group wants to handle determining which card is read first! Try placing the card you want read first face down, then the card to be read second on top of it. When picked up, the card to be read first will be the one facing the Kommandant.

There are only two of these brown cards in the core set. When the Kard Kommandant draws one, the other players will first draw two extra yellow cards. Choose three of them to play. Look, this shit ain't rocket science!
